Winslow Lewis

Rec Jan 30 - 1979

ancestor he is in pursuit of, engraven, as it were, on the rock of Plymouth, never to be effaced till the waves of fire shall pass over this planet, and a new earth and a new heaven shall appear.

Time, which often travels in the path of history, not by years, but by centuries, has already begun to throw around the Landing of the Pilgrims the halo of antiquity—like that aureola of classic celebrity which seen through the vista of ages surrounds Jason and his brave companions in the first great maritime enterprise of which we have any account—the Argonautic expedition. Let us for a moment compare it with the voyage of the MAYFLOWER.

The Argonautic expedition was a passage of a few hundred miles from Argos in Greece, to Colchis in the Euxine—coasting along the shores of the Ægean sea, they entered the narrow straits of the Dardanelles, crossed the small sea of Marmora, and then from headland to headland reached the desired haven; secure of a safe harbor in storms, and never out of sight of land. Their motive was only an earthly ambition—their object the golden fleece, guarded by the Minotaur; a beautiful allegory of commercial enterprise. But the voyage of the MAYFLOWER was exposed to greater perils, and infinitely more exalted in motive and object. A band of Christian exiles, leaving their fatherland and their kindred to return no more, adventured in a small bark upon a mighty ocean—for days and weeks and months subjected to hardships and tempests—nought but the sky and a boundless sea above and around them—and before them the approach to a iron bound coast, and the dreary scene of a coming winter. They had no thread of Ariadne to guide them in the labyrinth of woods and hostile tribes. Yet they leaned on an invisible arm. They were sustained by faith in the ALMIGHTY, and cheered by the grandeur and magnificence of their aim. It was a voyage in pursuit of religious freedom and independence—to build a church on the hill-top, and plant a school house in the valley; and while they were “seeking first the kingdom of God and his righteousness,” they were laying the foundations of an empire on earth. The Argonautic expedition has been eternized in the classic songs of antiquity. The MAYFLOWER yet waits for the poet to do it justice; and it may be centuries before one shall descend from Heaven to gather up the sweet memories and glorious events in the lives of the Pilgrim fathers, and set them like another Æneid to everlasting music.

Indeed, the landing of the Pilgrims on the rock of Plymouth and the battle fought at Bunker Hill, in the first dawn of Independence, which is consecrated by a majestic obelisk on the spot, are two who came early to this country, whether north or south of Mason and Dixon's line. Perhaps a general and comprehensive volume of these pedigrees would disclose more consanguinity than we suspect, and would include many distinguished men; but such a work requires patient labor and some expenditure.

May 15, 1635; among the passengers to "Virginea" at that time in the Plain Joan, Richard Buckam, Master, "who brought attestation of their conformity to the orders and discipline of the Church of England," with their corresponding ages, is that of Robert Lewis, a. 23; also another list of emigrants to the same colony, 1634-5, contains John Lewis, a. 23. Register, vol. xv, pp. 112, 212. In the Hercules of Sandwich, John Wetherly, Master, "bound for the plantation" in New England, with certificates from ministers of good character, &c., was John Lewis of Tenterden in Kent, with Sarah his wife and one child. Their certificate was from Jno. Gee, Vicar of Tenterden, 20 Feb. 1634; John Austin, Mayor, and Freegift Stace, Jurat, 1 March, 1634. Ibid, vol. xv, p. 28. He was brother of GEORGE LEWIS of Barnstable, who resided at and became a free-man of Scituate, 1637, ancestor of Dr. Lewis. So careful were the early progenitors of New England to maintain a good character at home, of which they could carry vouchers abroad. George Lewis who settled in Maine, is mentioned in the first volume of Maine Hist. Col. as one who received a grant of fifty acres at Backcove (Falmouth) in 1640, and died there July, 1683. Mr. Willis, whose great accuracy and research are seldom, if ever at fault, suggests that he was the son of George of Scituate, but it could not be so, as that son George lived at Barnstable, and died March 20, 1710.

A family of this name settled very early at Marblehead, for in the Petition against Imports (1668) by certain inhabitants of that port, there appears the name of James Lewis. (Register, vol. ix, p. 81.) The ancestors of Samuel G. Lewis, from whom the massy mole in this city, called Lewis Wharf, derives its name, and which originated from the Lewis Wharf Company in 1834, were emigrants from England.

In that elaborate work by the learned Jas. Savage, LL. D., a monument of great industry, and destined to be of surpassing value to the future student of New England pedigrees, under the title of LEWIS, vol. iii, p. 84, five closely printed pages are devoted to this name, embracing fifty-three heads of families, alphabetically arranged, and including the progenitors of Dr. Lewis. The earliest emigrant among them seems to have been Thomas Lewis, who having examined the eastern coast under a patent from the Council of Plymouth, Feb. 12, 1630, conveying lands east of Saco river, took possession of the premises June 25 of the same year. This is referred to in Maine Hist. Collections, vol. i, p. 16; also Felt's Ecclest. Hist. of New England, vol. i, 153. Emigrants came out in 1630, 1635, settling on the Cape, in Charlestown, Boston, Malden, Lynn, Cambridge and other places. From John Lewis, one of the early settlers in Malden, was descended the late Alonzo Lewis, author of the History of Lynn, according to the careful researches of Thos. B. Wyman, Jr., Esq., a member of our Society. Edmund Lewis, who embarked with his wife on board the Elizabeth in April, 1634, settled at Lynn in 1643. Another John Lewis in 1669 was one of the fathers of Westerly, R. I. He is spoken of in the Register, vol. xiv, p. 167, as a free inhabitant of that place in 1669, who had six children; his numerous progeny are enumerated.

To recapitulate, however, the different progenitors of this name, and the places to which they emigrated would exceed our limits, but a recurrence to a few of them may throw some light on the early settlement of our country. Among them we find that Daniel Lewis, 1679, was one of the founders of Westerly, R. I., and William Lewis, whose son Ezekiel married a daughter of that celebrated teacher, Master Ezekiel Cheever, who wrote a Latin grammar, superior to all the abstractions of modern improvement, was among the early settlers of Farmington, Conn. One of the descendants of Deacon Joseph Lewis, who settled in Waterbury, Conn., before 1700, died April 28, 1855, at Southington, Conn., was Chauncey Lewis, aged 95, a soldier of the revolution, and at one time one of Washington's Life Guards. There were very many of the name of John, one of whom settled in Portsmouth; another in Falmouth, from whom the Hon. Samuel Lewis of Cincinnati, who died July, 1854, was descended; and another went to Saybrook; Joseph settled in New London, 1666, and William in Cambridge, 1632.

William Lewis, grandfather of Rev. Ezekiel Lewis, who graduated at Harvard University in 1695, was from Newtown (Cambridge), and belonged to the Braintree company. He went to Hartford in 1636, and thence to Farmington, Conn. He came out in the Lion, 1632. Robert Lewis who settled in Newbury, 1644, emigrated in the Blessing, Capt. Leicester, 1635. His name is spelt Lewes in Drake's Result of Researches. In Freeman's History of Cape Cod, vol. i, p. 614, it is remarked that one of the prominent men, which the Cape contributed in great numbers to Maine in its early settlement, Maj. George Lewis, died this year (1855) at an advanced age. He emigrated in 1784 to Gorham; his eldest son, Hon. Winthrop Lewis, born 1764, died 1822, and "was a model of public virtue." His second son, Rev. James Lewis of Gorham, was a man of great piety and success in the ministry, born 1770, died Aug. 19, 1855, aged 86. The late Hon. Lathrop Lewis of Gorham, was a direct descendant of the first George Lewis of Barnstable. Register, vol. II, p. 305.

The origin of the Lewis family, without much doubt, is Welsh. Indeed there is at this day in England a distinguished instance of this patronymic, Sir George Cornwall Lewis, one of Her Majesty's secretaries of state, by birth a Welshman, educated at Oxford, where he was the first scholar of his class, an accomplished author, and a powerful and eloquent advocate in favor of the American Union, now at war with the rebels. The patriot, Francis Lewis, a Signer of the Declaration of Independence, was also born in Wales. Gen. Washington had a brother-in-law by the name of Lawrence Lewis.

Dr. Winslow Lewis was descended more immediately from the Rev. Isaiah Lewis and his wife Abigail, daughter of Kenelm Winslow, a lineal descendant from Edward Winslow of England, in the fifth generation. Gov. Hutchinson, in his remarks on the death of Gov. Edward Winslow, says: "He was a gentleman of the best family of any of the Plymouth planters, his father Edward Winslow, Esq., being a person of some figure at Droughtwich in Worcestershire." The pedigree of each family, the Winslow and Lewis branch, commencing at Edward Winslow in England and Geo. Lewis of Barnstable, so far as a careful and diligent investigation will allow, will be given in the next number of the Register. Some of the descendants on each side have been distinguished in their day and ought to be noticed, particularly Gov. Edward Winslow, with whom Dr. Lewis can only claim consanguinity through the father their common ancestor. A brief account of this eminent and good man, though it may contain nothing new, yet may refresh the memory of the reader; the beautiful spot where he dwelt after continuing for several generations in the possession of the family became part and parcel of the domain of the great American orator, Daniel Webster, who lived and died there; and near whose tomb, the surges of ocean seem to sing their sad requiem, and where many a lover of his country has dropped a tear at the loss of a statesman, whose counsels in these calamitous times of Rebellion are so much needed.

Edward Winslow, the eldest son of Edward and Magdalene Winslow of Droitwich, Worcestershire, England, was born October 19th, 1595. He was well educated, but at what seminary is unknown. While he was travelling in Europe in 1617, he met Mr. Robinson at Leyden, joined his church, and came out with the Pilgrims in the Mayflower. He was one of five brothers who emigrated from England, viz: Gilbert with him; John in the Fortune, 1621; Kenelm and Josiah before 1632. At the close of the voyage the celebrated covenant was drawn, in which he was the third signer. His wife Elizabeth died about three months after their arrival, and within six or seven weeks he married Susanna, widow of William White, for whom she had been in mourning only two and a half months. But the times were pressing. Their marriage was the first one solemnized in the emigration. He was sent in July, 1621, by Gov. Carver, with Stephen Hopkins on an embassy to the great sachem Massasoit at Pokanoket with the present of "a horseman's great coat of red cotton," which charmed and conciliated his majesty. On the way they were regaled with bread called mazium, and the spawn of shads, which they ate with a spoon. His next excursion was to the Island of Monhegan in 1622, to obtain bread for the fishermen. He visited Massasoit again in 1623, who was sick, and he was the means of restoring him to health. In the autumn of that year he was sent out as Colonial agent to England; and while absent prepared his narrative called, "Good news from N. E.," which was printed in 66 quarto pages; see vol. viii, 239-270. In 1624 he again visited England, and on his return was elected one of the Assistants, that body having been enlarged to five.

He was chosen Governor in 1633. In 1635 he went again to England as Agent. There for seventeen weeks he was confined in the Fleet prison, on complaint of Thomas Morton, for teaching Plymouth church and for solemnizing marriage. On his return home he was elected Governor in 1636 and again in 1644. He narrowly escaped death in his expedition to Kennebec, in 1642. The Indians had formed a conspiracy against the English; one of them, knowing that Mr. Winslow was in the habit of walking within the palisadoes, prepared to shoot him, and was on the watch. Mr. Winslow not seeing him, nor suspecting anything, but thinking he had walked enough went suddenly into the house, and God preserved him. See Savage's Winthrop, p. 269. The world does not sufficiently reflect, that our GREAT CREATOR, as the FATHER OF SPIRITS, can put thoughts into our mind and thereby shield us from danger. He was much interested in civilizing and converting the poor Indians. In May 8, 1655, he was appointed by Oliver Cromwell one of the three on a committee to conduct an expedition against the Spanish possessions in the West Indies. From the disagreement of the commanders and unfit state of the troops, they were at first defeated; and Gov. Winslow on the passage between Hispaniola and Jamaica was attacked by the fever of the climate and died May 8, 1655, in his 60th year. He was buried in the ocean with the funeral honors of war, and forty-two guns were fired by the fleet. He had settled in Marshfield at a seat he called Careswell, the name of an ancient English castle, the abode of the Vanes. It is near Green harbor, so called, and in his life time had become part of the domain where stood the mansion of Daniel Webster.

One anecdote, like the vane of the church spire, which points the direction of the wind, will exemplify his uniform character for benevolence and a good heart. When Roger Williams was driven from Massachusetts by men more religious than just, we are told that "Gov. Winslow of Plymouth, who had no hand in his expulsion, 'put a piece of gold in the hands of his wife to relieve his necessities.'" Barry's Hist. of Mass. vol. 1, p. 242. This trait of character seems still to run in the Winslow blood if we may judge from what we know of the subject of this memoir.

Josiah Winslow, son of Edward, was born in 1629, married Penelope, daughter of Herbert Pelham, Esq., of Boston, 1663. He was an Assistant, 1646-1649, was chosen Governor, 1673, which office he held seven years, till his death. In the war with Philip in 1675 he was commander-in-chief of all the forces—a man of sterling courage and of eminent talents. The Massachusetts Historical Society has a fine portrait of Gov. Josiah Winslow, copied from a painting in possession of Isaac Winslow, Esq., of Boston, descendant of Gen. John Winslow grandson of Gov. Josiah W., in honor of whom the town of Winslow in Maine was named 1771. There were several distinguished men in the posterity of Gov. Edward Winslow, but our business is more immediately with the time of Kenelm.

Kenelm Winslow, brother of Gov. Edward, was baptised 3 May, 1599, having been born the Sunday before. He settled in Marshfield on a neck of land lying between Green harbor and South river, a place Miss M. A. Thomas in her account of Marshfield, calls the Eden of that region, "beautified with groves of majestic oaks, and graceful walnuts." He married Ellen, widow of John Adams, June, 1634, who in the History of Scituate is erroneously called the daughter of John Adams; and if there were any doubt a reference to the Plymouth Colony Records, vol. 1, p. 176 and p. 30, will remove it; for

"Kenelm Winslow of Marshfield, sometimes inhabitant of the town of Plymouth at the time of his marriage with Ellenor Adams (sometime wife unto John Adams, deceased)," and "June, 1634, Kenelm Winslow and Ellen Adams, widow, were married." Sarah Winslow whom Miles Standish, Jr., married was either a daughter or niece of Kenelm."

Marshfield was first represented in the Colonial government in 1642, by Thomas Bourne and Kenelm Winslow. They had four children, one of whom was Nathaniel. He died at Salem on a visit in 1672, and was buried there; his wife Ellen, died in 1681, aged 83, and his epitaph is still traceable on Burying hill, among the time honored graves and tombs of the settlers of Marshfield.

Nathaniel had 8 children, of whom was Kenelm who married Abigail Waterman daughter of Joseph Waterman. They had 7 children, one of whom, Abigail Winslow, married the Rev. Isaiah Lewis. This was in the fifth generation, beginning with Edward Winslow of Droitwich, England, father of the Governor; and in this marriage the two Houses were united and continue in descent until we reach the subject of this memoir.

Rev. ISAIAH LEWIS was in the fourth degree of descent from GEORGE LEWIS, who was born in East Greenwich in Kent, England. He married Sarah Jenkins of that country, sister of Edward Jenkins.

ISAIAH LEWIS, born in Hingham, June 10, 1703, graduated at Harvard University, 1723, settled in the ministry at Eastham now Wellfleet, taught school in Hingham on week days, and preached on Sundays. In the records of Marshfield, 1729, is the following: "Voted to Mr. Isaiah Lewis for keeping school half a year 25 pounds, and for his service in preaching to the neighborhood in the north part of the town, 15 pounds, and request him still to continue their schoolmaster." He was in the ministry 55 years; died Oct. 3, 1786, aged 83. He is described as a clergyman "of strong mind, and a heart devoted to the work of the gospel in which he labored diligently and with success." He solemnized 233 marriages during his ministry and 213 members were added to his church. Rev. Levi Whitmore in 1785, was settled as a colleague with him. A marble monument was erected to his memory in the churchyard at Wellfleet, and this eulogium of his worth is there inscribed: "In the virtues and accomplishments that adorn men and assimilate man to God, he was among those that excel." Mr. Lewis had a brother, the Rev. Daniel Lewis, who graduated at Harvard University, 1707, was ordained December, 1712, after teaching a grammar school 'some years, and was settled in Pembroke.

Rev. Isaiah Lewis had 2 children—Hannah, who married Joseph Green; and WINSLOW LEWIS, born July, 1741, who married Mary Knowles, dau. of Willard Knowles, Sept. 12, 1765, and died at sea, July, 1801, æ. 60. He resided in Eastham, and was one of the Selectmen of Wellfleet in 1777. His wife died Jan. 31, 1807, æ. 61, and was buried at Copp's hill, Boston. He had 13 children, of whom three died in infancy; Abigail his daughter married Samuel Austin; WINSLOW LEWIS, was father of Dr. Lewis; Mary married Daniel Woods; Hannah married John W. Brigham; Isaiah married Harriet Cox; Nancy married John S. H. Cox; Joseph Warren married Nancy Lane; Asa Packard married Catharine Connell; Sally Greenough never married; and Henry married Sophia Draper.

Capt. WINSLOW LEWIS was born in Wellfleet, Cape Cod, May 11, 1770, son of Winslow Lewis of that place, sea captain. He was married to Elizabeth Greenough, daughter of Thomas Greenough, mathematical instrument maker and Ann Hobby. They were married by the Rev. John Murray, Nov. 7, 1793. He was then 22 and she 21 years old, she died June 11, 1842, aged 70, the mother of six children; three died in infancy. Frederic at 26 and Gustavus at 19; Dr. Winslow Lewis being the only survivor. Capt. Lewis married a second time, viz: Martha S. Hurlburt, daughter of James Phillips, Esq., who died in December, 1850. It is a remarkable fact that Capt. Lewis, and his three brothers, Josiah Lewis, Asa Packard Lewis and Joseph Warren Lewis, were all not only seafaring men, but skillful captains, and commanded some of the finest ships which sailed out of Boston harbor in their day. Neither of them is living.

Capt. Winslow Lewis had great practical knowledge and skill in hydraulic engineering. After he quit going to sea, he was constantly employed in building new lighthouses on our coasts, rivers and lakes, or in altering and repairing old ones. He furnished plans and specifications for beacons, buoys and monuments for the shoals and harbors along our shores, and was very successful in the construction of the Beacon on the Romer shoal in New York bay, the beacon on Bowditch's Ledge in Salem harbor, and other permanent ones which to this day, stand as monuments of his skill and long and faithful services to his country. He was contractor and builder in his lifetime of 200 lighthouses for the government; he invented the Binnacle illuminator, for which he got a patent, and which is now in such general use; he introduced the cotton duck into his factory at Watertown, and it became a substitute for the more expensive Russian duck; was the owner of a ropewalk at the foot of the Common; for several years was port warden of Boston; and in 1829 and 1836, was one of the Aldermen of the city.

But the reputation and talents of Capt. Winslow Lewis will be long held in remembrance for his public services, and "when the history of the lighthouse establishment in this country is written," as a gentleman, well acquainted with him, stated to me in a letter, "it will appear that Mr. Winslow Lewis was the first to introduce the present mode of illumination, and to lay the foundation for the modern improvement in the structures as well as lantern lamps and reflectors." About 50 years ago the only lamps used in the lighthouses were the spider lamp so called, which consumed a vast quantity of oil and produced a poor light. An offer was made by Capt. Lewis to fit up lanterns in all the lighthouses on the coast with lamps like those in use by the Trinity Board in England, with the Argand burner, and to affix thereto the parabolic reflector, and take for his compensation one-half of the oil thus saved from the annual consumption, the government retaining the usual quantity for a certain number of years. This offer was accepted, Captain W. was successful, and the brilliancy of the light was vastly increased to the great benefit of navigators. The time he first took charge of the lighthouses was about 1809, 1810; and he continued in this office, till within a few years of his death. In the war of 1812 with England, during one of his visits in the revenue cutter to a lighthouse in the bay, he was taken captive by the English, but soon after released on parol. During this war he was commander of the Boston Sea Fencibles, a body of spirited sea captains and mates of vessels, who voluntarily associated, armed and disciplined themselves to resist invasion. He was also President of the Marine Society.

Capt. Lewis died May 20, 1850, at Roxbury, aged 80 years. He was a tall, fine-looking man, of winning address, much beloved by all who knew him, and exemplary in all the relations of life. An excellent and appropriate tribute of respect was paid to his memory by the Hon. John S. Sleeper, in the Boston Journal, of which he was then the editor, who knew him well as one of our best citizens; after speaking "of his vigor of intellect and buoyancy of spirit," to the last of a long and honored life, he observes, "few men have labored more constantly or more successfully through a long life than Capt. Winslow Lewis." His funeral in Roxbury was conducted by the since lamented Rev. Dr. Lowell, assisted by Rev. Mr. Alger. It was attended by the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, of which he was a permanent member, for he had long been a true and faithful Mason in the Fraternity. His remains were deposited at Mount Auburn in 1859.

Dr. Winslow Lewis, the subject of this sketch, was born in Boston, July 8, 1799, in the same house in which his mother was born. He was fitted for college under the tuition of Mr. Daniel Staniford, who kept a private school of high repute in Boston; graduated at Harvard University in 1819, studied medicine under the late eminent Dr. John C. Warren, and took his degree of M. D. in 1822. His favorite pursuit was anatomy, for which he had a peculiar tact, as he had a firm nerve and quick, decisive judgment, qualities so essential in delicate and critical operations of surgery. To perfect his studies he went immediately to Europe, attended the lectures of Dupuytren in Paris, and Abernethy in London, both surgeons of great celebrity. This was not, however, his first visit, for he crossed the Atlantic, when only seventeen years of age, and saw many places and persons; and if the old adage would apply, Noscitur e sociis, he stood high, for he kept good company; coming home with such distinguished men as Dr. Edward Reynolds, the late Hon. Abbott Lawrence, and Franklin Dexter, Esq., who died not long since.

On his return he commenced practice in Boston. On February 22, 1828, he was married by the Rev. Bethel Judd, to Miss Emeline Richards, daughter of Capt. Benjamin Richards of New London, Conn. He has been two years Physician of the Municipal Institutions, three of the House of Correction, and since Dr. Warren's decease, he has been consulting Physician in the Massachusetts General Hospital.

In 1849 he again visited the Continent, leaving his family at home. He was gone only seven months, and visited several places of note. He was in Rome when it was attacked by the French, and quitted that city only the day before the siege commenced, of which he wrote home a glowing description which was published in the Transcript. He journeyed on to Geneva, and was admiring the sublime scenery which surrounded that city—the overhanging Alps and the mirror of the blue lake beneath them—when, not dreaming of evil, he took up a newspaper from Boston and read the death of his only surviving son, Winslow; this young and promising lad of only ten years, had followed the fate of his two infant brothers cut off by that ravaging disease, the Scarletina. The blow was sudden and heavy to the afflicted father, and he hurried home.

The next year, 1850, he again embarked for Europe, with his family, consisting of Mrs. Lewis and his three daughters. The Doctor is an observing voyageur and took notes of his travels, extracts from which would be a rich treat to the reader of dry pedigrees, but they are, as yet, a sealed book. The writer of this has never had a glimpse of them, and could only, here and there, get a word or hint of his travel's history in a hurried conversation, but he has followed him from place to place in imagination, when he spoke of classic grounds he had visited.

Dr. Lewis and his family spent six months in Paris, where he was introduced to Louis Napoleon, then President of the Republic, now the illustrious Emperor of France. The Duke of Tuscany and his lady, became his intimate friends, and their portraits now adorn his library. They also spent some time in England and Scotland, visiting all the remarkable spots and places sought by strangers, traveling as far north among the Highlands and lakes as Inverness. They also set out on a journey to Italy, the Classic land—the land of beauty and poesy, of fallen greatness, and august recollections. Rome with its ruins of past grandeur, lying as it were, beneath the magnificent dome and structure of St. Peter's—Milan with its palaces and splendid cathedral—Venice with its numerous islands, canals and Bridge of Sighs—and Naples with its enchanting bay and picturesque scenery, successively became the objects of their admiration. Three times, the Doctor said he had ascended Mount Vesuvius; more fortunate than the elder Pliny, of whose death from a sudden eruption of the volcano, his nephew the younger Pliny has given in his letters a melancholy, but graphic description; and although written eighteen centuries ago, the reader feels as though he was present at the scene.

But the principal inducement of his journey to Italy, and where he wished to make a transient home, was Florence, that beautiful city with the vale of Arno on one side, and the Appenines on the other; Florence lies encircled by these mountains from whose summit, it is said, the Adriatic and Mediterranean seas are visible; through the city flows the river Arno on its way some 50 or 60 miles from the coast, and watering Pisa, famous for its leaning tower, and university. Florence is the central city of Italy, remote from the Alpine snows in the north and the sultry Calabrian heat on the south—a truly delicious climate. It has been called the city of churches, palaces and bridges; for every house is a palace, from the richness and elegance of its structures. Here was the home of Petrarch, Cosmo and Lorenzo de Medici and Michael Angelo; here Boccaccio wrote those tales of the Decameron, which make the reader of Italian wish to draw a veil over their licentiousness, while charmed with the invariable elegance of the style; and Cardinal Ganganelli, afterwards Pope Clement XIV, in one of his letters, which have so much holy unction, says of that beautiful place, "there you will admire a city, which according to the remark of a Portuguese, should only be shown on Sundays." The immortal Dante sung of Florence, when he was pouring forth those cantos, which at times touch deep springs in the heart beyond any poet that ever lived. Perhaps, it was at evening in his melancholy walks among the Appenines, near the vale of Vallombrosa, so exquisitely described in the Paradise Lost, that, looking at the distant towers of Florence, Dante heard the village bells and wrote that touching melody, which suggested to Gray the first thought of the immortal Elegy in the country churchyard.

Squilla de lontano

Che paja 'l giorno pianger che si muore.—Purg., canto viii.

The village bell seemed to mourn the departing day.

Dr. Lewis and his family returned home in 1853. He resumed his profession as a matter of choice, for his fortune placed him above dependence on the severe labors and arduous duties of a physician; yet such was his skill and knowledge of surgery, that he could not avoid the frequent calls of sufferers from disease or injury who came to him far and near; more especially since the death of Dr. John C. Warren. But he was much relieved in practice by the growing and well deserved reputation of his son-in-law Dr. George H. Gay, to whom, Nov. 21, 1855, his oldest daughter Elizabeth Greenough was married. One fact in his practice, so well known to his friends, ought not to be suppressed. Often, very often, his charges to the poor and unfortunate have been light or none at all. To feel for the distressed, to administer to the victims of pain and sickness, is the delight of the good physician and the glory of a great one.

On Nov. 3, 1855, his second daughter, Maria Richards, was married to Warren Fisher, Jr., merchant of Boston; the ceremonies were performed by Rev. Dr. Vinton in St. Paul's Church. And now it would seem that the cup of human felicity in this charming family was as full as could be expected in this changing world. With an amiable and devout partner—ever seeking to help the unfortunate and do good to the poor—with his lovely children pleasantly settled around him—his home in the mansion where his father lived, on Boylston and Pleasant streets, in which his study with a bay window commanded a picturesque view of the public garden and little lake therein—with a select library where he could pursue his 'classic taste and antiquarian researches, and with a fortune ample for enjoyment among troops of friends and the claims of charity, his lot seemed peculiar and almost enviable ; when, but a few years passed away and deep sorrow for a season cast a shadow over the dreams of unalloyed felicity, teaching us that we are pilgrims on earth and that this world is not our home.

Seldom has the community experienced a greater shock, or a family been called to deeper grief, than by the calamity which occurred at Boston, on Wednesday Jan. 5th, 1859, and bereaved her fond parents of an affectionate daughter, and a devoted husband of a wife. This sad event which was noticed in the Boston papers with much feeling and sympathy, came upon them, too, under circumstances sudden and uncommon. There had been a violent snow storm, with some rain, freezing and a thaw. A fair day followed, and Mrs. Lewis and her daughter, Mrs. Fisher, left home about noon, and visited the store of Daniels & Co., merchants, Summer street. This store is a lofty stone structure in front, with an addition or extension in the rear, one story high, and only lighted in the centre by a large skylight. Mrs. Fisher stood immediately under it, her mother near by, and they were intent on looking at some goods on the counter. Suddenly a noise was heard, and an avalanche falling from the roof of the main building, lodged directly upon this skylight, crushing the glass and frame with its weight, and overwhelming Mrs. Fisher to the ground. She was immediately taken up, bleeding profusely, and conveyed to her father's house. On examination it was found she was much injured, having been dangerously cut in vital parts by pieces of glass, which with difficulty were extracted. She suffered great agony, and from her delicate situation at the time, sunk under internal injuries on Sunday, having survived only four days. The funeral services were at St. Paul's Church, where the house was crowded to overflowing, and the Rev. Mr. Bancroft made a brief, but very solemn and appropriate address. She was deposited in a tomb under the church, and has since been conveyed to Mount Auburn.

Dr. Lewis' favorite study has been surgery and anatomy, in which he is acknowledged to have few superiors, if any in the country. To these he united a love of antiquarian researches, and has retained his fondness for the Latin classics, the beauties of which seem to cling to his memory, as the perfume lingers in the sandal wood in every change of condition. Such are the sweet influences of the cultivation of taste and knowledge in early life; they give a tone to character and a charm to conversation, which neither age nor misfortune can take away. But his great object was his profession, and during the last 35 years the number of his private pupils have exceeded 400. He translated from the French, Gall on the Structure and Functions of the Brain, which was published in six volumes, edited Paxton's Anatomy, and also a work of Practical Anatomy.

He was a representative from Boston to the General court in 1835, '52 and '53; one of the Common council of the city in 1839; on the School committee, 1839, '40, '41, '44, '45, '57 and '58; visitor of the U. S. Marine Hospital 1856 to 1862; one of the Overseers of Harvard University from 1856 to 1862, and lately re-elected six years more; Consulting Physician of the city, 1861; Counsellor of the Massachusetts Medical Society; a member of the American Medical Society of Paris; for three years he was Grand Master of Masons in Massachusetts, viz.: in 1855, '56 and '60, and has been at the head of several Orders in Masonry, a recapitulation of which would sound strange and forthputting to the uninitiated, and give no information to those who are. He has for very many years been a fervent and active friend to this noble Institution. The reason of his becoming a Mason was singular. In the days when the Fraternity were abused without mercy and persecuted to the utmost, he saw an advertisement in a paper of one of the furious Anti-Masons, Avery Allyn—a name now almost forgotten—that on a certain day, in 1829, he would deliver a lecture, showing up the weakness and hypocrisy of Freemasonry, and its dangerous tendency. The Doctor was led by curiosity to go and hear him; and the very sophisms this arch-enemy of the Brotherhood used, and the abuse he heaped upon many of them, who were men without fear and without reproach, made him a convert on the other side, and he became a Mason in Columbian Lodge, then under the government of Joshua B. Flint, M. D., since G. M. of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts.

The last honor he has received was an unanimous choice as President of the New England Historic-Genealogical Society in 1861; an office he still retains; and long may he be spared to preside over us. It would be ungrateful in ourselves and injustice to him not to mention the liberal and valuable donations he has made to the Society—several hundred volumes, and some of them very rare and costly. He has also made to the library of Harvard University several donations of ancient works, many of them the result of his purchase abroad.

But I must pause and let this brief memoir of Dr. Lewis come to an end; truly lamenting that the account must necessarily be meagre and imperfect; for he was absent under the call of the U. S. government, devoting his professional skill to an examination of all the hospitals of New York and vicinity, where many of our sick and wounded soldiers were sent; and of course I have depended on other sources for information, and received not much help from him, touching his travels; yet from a long acquaintance, and the unbroken friendship of many years not only with him, but his excellent father, it gives me unfeigned pleasure to offer this tribute of affection and respect.

¹ Mr. William S. Appleton of Boston, who is a descendant of the first John Winslow in this country, of the seventh generation, informs me that during his recent visit to England, he saw at the Registry of Probate of Worcester in September last, the will of "Kenelme Winslowe," of the parish of St. Andrews, Worcester, dated April 14, 1607, proved Nov. 9, 1607. He was evidently old, as his name is written in a weak and trembling hand. He appoints his wife Katherine sole executrix, and speaks of his children and grand children. He was a yeoman. Droitwich from which the New England Winslows emigrated is about 8 miles from Worcester, and it is probable that the above Kenelm Winslow was a relative, and possibly the grandfather of Gov. GENEALOGY OF THE LEWIS FAMILY.

I. GEORGE LEWIS came out here before 1633 from East Greenwich in Kent, Eng.; m. Sarah Jenkins of that country, sister of Edward Jenkins, clothier; who afterwards emigrated to Plymouth. Mr. Lewis was dismissed from the Plymouth Church in 1634, and joined the church in Scituate, as appears by the church records, Sept. 20, 1635, where he had lands; he was enrolled in the list of freemen at New Plymouth, March 7, 1636, and removed to Scituate, where with certain freemen in 1637 he petitioned the court for more land, his allotment being insufficient for his support, and the petition was granted. From thence he removed to Barnstable in 1640, where he resided till his death, which in Farmer's Genealogical Register, p. 178, is stated to have been March 26, 1676, when "he was killed by the Indians at Blackstone farm;" but this is an error, as the date applies to his son; for he died in 1663, as his will was presented for probate at Barnstable, March 3, 1662-3. See N. E. His. and Gen. Register, vol. vi, p. 185; also Savage's Geneal. Dictionary.

II. 1. CHILDREN OF GEORGE LEWIS: (2) Mary, b. about 1623, m. John Bryant of Scituate, Nov. 14, 1643, d. 1656. They had seven children. (3) Thomas, + b. in England; m. Records*), and from his military rank was called in the Records, Lieut. Lewis. There was a "Select Court" in each town, and he was appointed one of the three justices for Barnstable; d. Oct. 4, 1713, a. 82. (6) John, b. at Scituate Oct. 29, 1637; m. Margaret —. In the year 1676, the time of that bloody and destructive war with the Indians under King Philip, he was in the battle called "Pierce's fight," which took place in Rehoboth² near Mount Hope, the residence of that celebrated Sachem. Capt. Michael Pierce of Scituate commanded the brave band, consisting of 63 English and 20 Cape Cod Indians. They were decoyed by the wily foe into an ambush, surrounded by 500 Indians, and after fighting heroically were nearly all slain, save only 8 English and 10 Indian allies, who escaped. John Lewis was slain in this battle, which took place on the sabbath day, March 26, 1670, in his 39th year; he had only one son, b. July, 1638. (7) Ephraim, b. at Barnstable, July 23, 1641, and bap. 25th. In Dr. Stiles' copy of Records of Churches of Scituate and Barnstable is the following: "28 Goodman Lewis, Sr., joined September 20, 1635," and again, "Ephraim son of George Lewis, July 25, 1644." (See N. E. His. and Gen. Register, vol. ix, p. 282. P. S. This is named because Ephraim and Edward were supposed by Mr. Drake to be the same person.) The will of George Lewis, exhibited Mar. 3, 1663, at Barnstable, speaks of both. (Reg., vol. vi, p. 185.) (8) Sarah, b. Feb. 2, 1643; m. His gem of a Night in a Wherry, which appeared in the Atlantic Monthly, Oct., 1861, reminds us of De Foe's peculiar power of narrative. Such a loss is one of the calamities of this execrable, internecine war into which we have been driven. Could the spirit of that scholar, who once presided over the Academic Halls of Cambridge, look down from his happy seat, as Anchises did in the Elysian plains, would he not exclaim, if his grandson could but have lived ?

"Tu Marcellus eris. Manibus date lilia plenis;

His saltem accumulem donis."—AEn., book vi.)
